

Reality TV Beh

From escalating feuds to imploding relationships, there's no shortage of backstage drama on these shows

BUDDY SYSTEM

"Adam and Blake gang up on Miley," claims an insider.

Miley Wants Off The Voice

The Voice fans are used to seeing contestants battle it out on TV, but the real drama of season 11 is happening off camera. In the weeks leading up to its Sept. 19 premiere, new coach Miley Cyrus and veteran coach Adam Levine have been clashing at every turn. "Miley's been in tears," an insider tells In Touch exclusively. "Things are so bad," she's even thought about leaving the show. The problem is that Adam, 37, and Miley, 23, fight like children. "Adam has a thing for practical jokes and Miley feels like his favorite target," explains the insider, who says the Maroon 5 rocker recently put up "no smoking" signs on everyone's dressing room — except the notorious marijuana lover's. "At first it seemed innocent, but Adam's teasing has turned into immature bullying. He tears apart everything Miley does."

Adam's not the only problem. "At first Miley and Blake [Shelton, 40] were getting along great, but now he's started poking fun at her incessantly," says the insider. "She feels like it's a boys' club and that she's all alone. They were recording promos recently and in between every single take Adam would make little jabs to Blake about Miley," adds the insider. "After they wrapped, Adam told her, 'This will be your first and last season.' Miley shot back, 'If I have anything to do with it, it will be your last season, too!'"

Miley doesn't know how much more she can take. She's also clashed with new judge Alicia Keys, 35, as In Touch previously reported. "Miley's dying to get out of there," says the insider. "She's had enough."