Gwen and Blake “have barely spent a day apart in eight months,” says a source. “She doesn’t want that all to go away when she’s on the road.”

Gwen's NO. 1 TOUR DEMAND

Blake Shelton and Gwen Stefani have been attached at the hip ever since they fell head over heels for each other last fall, but with Gwen embarking on her This Is What the Truth Feels Like tour on July 12, their relationship could be put to the test — which is why the “Misery” singer, 46, is begging Blake to come with her! “Gwen is worried about the idea of spending so much time apart,” says a source close to the blonde beauty. “She’s afraid it’s going to blow up their romance.”

Post-show cuddle sessions aren’t the only reason Gwen wants to keep Blake, who turned 40 on June 18, close. After her ex Gavin Rossdale cheated on her, it’s understandable that Gwen would have “trust issues,” as the source puts it. “She wants to keep an eye on Blake.” And it wouldn’t hurt if she could announce a few guest appearances by the country megastar in an effort to boost her dismal ticket sales. “At this point in their careers, Blake is bigger than Gwen,” the source explains. “The idea that he could show up to perform their duet would be very attractive to fans.”

However, the source says, Blake isn’t totally sold on the idea of following his girlfriend around the country, especially since he’ll be playing a handful of festivals this summer. “Blake loves Gwen but doesn’t want to be her sidekick for two months,” the insider says. Gee, Blake, why don’t you just go ahead and break Gwen’s heart!
