

GWEN STEFANI LIFE WITH MY BOYS

All three of your sons—Kingston, 11, Zuma, 8, and Apollo, 3—are home for the summer. Is it crazy having a full house?

It's a relief. That routine of homework is just ugh. By the end you're ready to have them home and do fun stuff. Today we found the ice-cream maker in the garage.

Do they know how much of a rock star Mom was in her No Doubt days?

They don't really care! I was in a band and free my whole life, so I always thought I'd do whatever I wanted and take them out of school. But I've learned they feel safest when there are boundaries. They only want you to care about them, like, "You're my mom."

Did they have any input in the upcoming doll line inspired by your Nick Jr. show Kuu Kuu Harajuku?

I got the prototypes [for the dolls, available this fall], and Apollo's chosen "Angel" for [Stefani's boyfriend] Blake [Shelton]. Kingston's excited 'cause he might be in an episode [of the show]. He's like, "Can my voice be in it?"

What's your biggest challenge as a mom?

It's a constant fear of "How am I gonna make sure these kids are good people?" It's fun to watch them become humans, but then there will be other things like, "Can I get my ears pierced?" I'm like, "Um, no." [Laughs]

—MELODY CHIU

Kuu Kuu Harajuku—executive-produced by Stefani, 47 (with Apollo, Kingston and Zuma)—returns July 7 on Nick Jr.

INDIE POP BAND FITZ AND THE TANTRUMS

Thanks to their groovy 2016 hit "HandClap" and new single "Fool," neo-soul act Fitz and the Tantrums have become Top 40 favorites. When they open for OneRepublic this summer, singer Michael Fitzpatrick, 46, will travel with his wife and two young sons. "To have my wife and kids there as my anchor means everything," he says. "They'll rock out onstage with us!"

—LINDSAY KIMBLE

Twin Peaks' Mädchen Amick

She was just a teenager and a recent Hollywood transplant from Reno when she landed the part of Shelly Johnson, a waitress with a few dark secrets, in David Lynch's eerie Pacific Northwest thriller Twin Peaks. "I thought it would either be a failure because TV wasn't ready for it, or it would be something exciting people loved," Mädchen Amick, 46, says of the ABC series, which ran from 1990 to 1991. "Thankfully it was the latter." The actress recently reunited with castmates for Showtime's reboot of the show and also stars in CW's Riverdale. "I'm proudly a working actress," she says. "I needed to work to provide for my family, and I'm really thankful I've been able to do that for all these years."

1990

"It was a lightning-in-a-bottle kind of thing," she says of the first Twin Peaks.